Task/ Expectation:

Hello,

This week has flown by so quickly, I can't believe it's the weekend already.

We have been so busy reading more chapters of How to Train your Dragon which has supported our learning in SPaG and comprehension We have learned new spellings, possessive and personal pronouns, how to use inverted commas in speech and how to make predictions about what will happen at the end of the chapter.

Homework this week is linked to our Literacy lessons and I would like the children to read their reading book and write a prediction about what they think will happen next. They can present this however they like, either typed or hand written. Whichever way they choose presentation is very important!

During maths, this week, we have multiplied and divided by 10 and 100.

In geography we have studied OS maps and created our own, using a key. We have learned about vibration and that sound can travel through a solid and water as well as air in science and in history we have researched Anglo Saxon life. We have started to design an Anglo Saxon house in D.T. Today we measured and scaled down our designs ready to make them on Monday. If anyone has any straw for the roof please could you bring some in.

Thank you everyone who has helped their child learn their tables and spellings; it really makes a huge difference to your child's learning when you support them at home.

Have a lovely weekend

Kind Regards
